Dear Neighbor/ Friend,

In the Tired-a-Lot Design Studio we want our campers- youth and teens from Fort Wayne- to transform not only their environments but also their perspectives. By providing a summer camp to teach them about architecture and design, we try to help them see their neighborhoods as places that can grow and change and themselves as agents of positive change within their own communities.

We're writing this letter to ask you to help us bring their dreams to life! By completing a letter of support, you will be letting the City of Fort Wayne know that you are in favor of the project being completed. (This letter in no way obligates you to help build or pay for the project.)

Please see a description with additional details about the project below. If you would like to testify about the project in person, please come to room 35 of Citizen Square (200 E Berry Street, 46802) at 5:30 pm on Thursday, May 16th.

Thank you for your help + support!

Project Description: The 2018 Tired-a-Lot Summer studio focused on providing a new design for Mount Vernon Park, a neighborhood between Petit, Paulding, S. Anthony, and E Hanna. Our campers designed an intergeneration space that will be appealing for neighbors of all ages. The space (pictured below) will include a new fence with cartoon murals, "clubhouses" for community members to sit and chat, and tire swings for children to play. Please check out images of the proposed project below. Thank you for your support!
